A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE: THOMAS EDISON STATE COLLEGE

Thomas Edison State College, one of America's preeminent educational institutions, provides adults with access to the best choices in higher education. Cited as "one of the brighter stars of higher learning" by The New York Times and named one of the Top 20 Cyber-Universities by Forbes Magazine, Thomas Edison State College enables adults to build on their past achievements as a bridge to their future success.

The College offers the highest quality education to adults who have the inspiration, self-discipline and energy to complete degrees despite the many conflicting demands of career, family and community. Founded in 1972, this world-renowned institution offers 13 associate, baccalaureate and master's degrees in more than 100 areas of study. Thomas Edison State College provides adults from every state in the U.S. and more than 84 countries with a wide variety of ways to complete a quality degree.

The College, its leadership and programs are a tribute to its illustrious history. A city, state and federal landmark, the Kelsey Building is listed on the national Register of Historic Places and is recognized as one of the most important visual landmarks of the State House Historic District. Originally built by Henry Cooper Kelsey, a banker and politician with an appreciation for the arts, the Kelsey Building was dedicated to his wife, Prudence Townsend Kelsey, who died in 1904. The building was dedicated in 1911 as the School for Industrial Arts. In 1979, when Thomas Edison State College was looking to move from office space it had outgrown in the Forrestal Center outside of Princeton, the state was looking for an appropriate tenant for the landmark Kelsey Building, while the city sought to preserve the building's historic use as a school.

All three concerns were brought together when state Senate President Joseph P. Merlino persuaded Gov. Brendan T. Byrne that the brick townhouses, along with the Kelsey Building, were ideal for College expansion.

Today, Thomas Edison State College's presence has expanded throughout the capital city. The College's Trenton campus embraces the Kelsey Building at 101 W. State St., the Academic Center at 167 E. Hanover St. and the Kuser Mansion at 315 W. State St., home of the John S. Watson Institute for Public Policy, the Office of Corporate-Higher Education Programs and Human Resources. Now another phase of the College's growth is nearly finished. The expansion and renovation of the Thomas Edison State College campus, which includes electronic classrooms, computer labs and educational conference and training rooms, is scheduled for completion by the end of this year. This facility comprises five nineteenth-century townhouses that have been restored to their original architectural style and will house the College's newly designed distance-learning support, development and delivery facilities.

Thomas Edison State College, however, isn't contained by bricks and mortar. The College's reach is felt by all those who strive to create a better future for themselves and for their communities. In the true spirit of inspiration and innovation, Thomas Edison State College will continue to reinvent the future of higher education into the new millennium and beyond.

Academic Heraldry: The Symbols of Learning

While the current code concerning the types of academic costumes to be used by the colleges in the United States dates from 1960, distinctive academic dress dates from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries. The college or university commencement procession today is a pageant, alive and bright, with dress and ceremony, derived from the tradition of the oldest universities.

Academic life as we know it today began in the Middle Ages — in Bologna and Paris, Oxford and Cambridge, Edinburgh, Glasgow and Louvain — first in the Church, then in the guilds. The teaching guild was the Guild of the Master of Arts, where the bachelor was the apprentice of the master and the dress was color-coded and patterned according to the academic level and discipline. Twelfth-century records of Oxford University state this justification for academic dress: "It is honorable and in accordance with reason that clerks to whom God has given an advantage of the lay folk in their adornments within, should likewise differ from the lay folk outwardly in dress."

There are three principal features of academic dress: the gown, the cap and the hood. Their design and heraldry were, from as early as the eleventh and twelfth centuries in the great European universities, the outward sign of the bringing together of students and privileged persons under the same discipline.

To preserve their dignity and meaning, it early became necessary for these universities to set rules for academic dress. American universities agreed on a system in 1895 and set up a suitable dress code of academic dress for the colleges and universities of the United States. In 1932, and again in 1959, the American Council on Education revised the code which, for the most part, governs the style of academic dress today.

THE GOWN. The flowing gown comes from the twelfth century. Many think it was worn in olden times as protection against the cold of unheated buildings. It has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it completely covers any dress of rank or social standing. It is black for all degrees above the associate's, with pointed sleeves for the bachelor's degree; oblong sleeves for the master's degree; and bell-shaped sleeves for the doctor's degree. For the bachelor's and master's degree, the gown has no trimmings. For the doctor's degree, it is faced down the front with velvet and has three bars of velvet across the sleeves in the color distinctive of the faculty or discipline to which the degree pertains. More recently, the official colors of Thomas Edison State College, burgundy and cream, have been used in the gown and its decorations.

THE CAP. When Roman law freed a slave, he won the privilege of wearing a cap. And so, the academic cap is a sign of freedom of scholarship and the responsibility and dignity with which scholarship endows the wearer. Old poetry records the cap of scholarship as square to symbolize the book, although some authorities claim that the mortar board is the symbol of the masons, a privileged guild. The color of the tassel on the cap denotes the discipline.

THE HOOD. Since almost all of the students and faculty in the medieval universities were clerics (minor church ecclesiastics) and were tonsured, the hood served to cover the shaved head from the cold of unheated buildings. Eventually, the hood was superseded by the skull cap and evolved into a headdress more or less like those in use today. Heraldically, the hood is an inverted shield with one or more chevrons of a secondary color on the ground of the primary color of the college. The color of the facing of the hood denotes the discipline represented by the degree; the color of the lining of the hood designates the college or university from which the degree was granted.

The associate's degree is a modern degree which dates back only several decades, rather than centuries. In the hierarchy of the academic world, the associate's degree is the modern entry point. Its equivalent in the guild of teachers, was that of a junior apprentice.

The hood is not worn by the associate's degree graduate. The associate's cap and gown are grey.

THE MACE. The mace — a heavy staff or club fashioned entirely of metal with a metal head — was originally a weapon of war. In the sixteenth century, it became a ceremonial standard and a scepter of office. It resembled the original weapon and was carried before officials at ceremonial occasions. It is still in use in the British House of Commons, where it lies upon the table before the speaker as a symbol of the authority of the House.

The mace of Thomas Edison State College was designed by the College and was inaugurated as the scepter of office at the October 1990 Commencement ceremony. It is a solid maple scepter with a two-sided medallion mounted to the head by a brass collar. There are three brass bands on the shaft, upon which the names of the College's three presidents and their terms are inscribed as follows: James Douglas Brown, Jr., 1972-1978; Lorraine Rose Matusak, 1979-1982; and George A. Pruitt, 1982-present. The mace shaft and base are finished in mahogany.

Carried in the procession by Dr. Patricia Sparks, the academic dean, the mace symbolizes the authority of the Office of the President.

Honorary Degree Recipient

Professor Antony P. Melck

For outstanding contributions to higher education and to the community, Professor Antony P. Melck, Principal and Vice Chancellor of the University of South Africa (UNISA), is being awarded the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. Professor Melck is one of the world's foremost leaders in the provision of distance-delivered education for adult learners.

Professor Melck's own higher education took place at a number of universities, both within South Africa and abroad. He received the Master of Commerce and Bachelor of Laws degrees from the University of Stellenbosch before being awarded a scholarship to the University of Cambridge (England), where he was awarded his M.A. in Economics. On returning to the University of Stellenbosch to lecture, he began research on the economics of education for which he was later awarded the Doctor of Commerce degree. While engaged in these programs, Professor Melck was awarded the Licentiate in Music (Organ) and later the Fellowship diploma (F.T.C.L.) by the Trinity College of Music in London. He also taught commercial law for a brief period and was admitted as an advocate of the Supreme Court.

Professor Melck was appointed professor of economics at Stellenbosch in 1983, after which he was awarded an Alexander van Humboldt fellowship to Germany, where he spent a year as a visiting professor at the University of Cologne. His research in the fields of the economics of education and public finance led to his involvement on various committees and commissions in the public sector, ranging from education to taxation.

In 1988 he became Registrar (Finance) at the University of South Africa, after which (in 1991) he was promoted to Vice Principal. In 1994 he was given leave by UNISA to assume the post of Deputy-Chairman of the government's Financial and Fiscal Commission, in which capacity he played an important role in the transformation of South Africa to the new constitutional structures.

Professor Melck's engagement in community service has led to his becoming chairman of the Governing Body of the Pretoria Boys' High School, a board member of the Zuid-Afrikaans Hospital, and President of the UNISA International Music Competitions.

As Principal and Vice Chancellor of UNISA, Professor Melck leads one of the largest universities in the world. UNISA enrolls some 130,000 students, all of whom are adults, and all of whom study at a distance. UNISA, which began to provide distance education to off-campus students in 1946, has always had a staff and student body that is diverse in regard to race and ethnicity. UNISA offers baccalaureate, master's, and doctoral degrees and is an important educational resource for citizens of the "new" South Africa. Professor Melck is a leading academic and will be UNISA's guide into the next millennium in a transformed country. Thomas Edison State College shares a common mission with UNISA in that both specialize in providing flexible, high-quality educational opportunities for adults who study at a distance. We are honored to recognize Professor Antony P. Melck during the twenty-seventh Annual Commencement ceremonies today.

America, the Beautiful

Music by Samuel A. Ward

Words by Katherine Lee Bates

O beautiful for spacious skies
For amber waves of grain
For purple mountains' majesties
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea.

O beautiful for patriot dream
That sees beyond the years
Thine alabaster cities gleam
Undimmed by human tears.
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' WAR MEMORIAL

The Trenton War Memorial on the Delaware River in downtown Trenton has served the state capital and central New Jersey for nearly 70 years. An architectural treasure listed on the National Register of Historic Sites, the memorial has served as a backdrop for some of New Jersey's top tier of society, business and entertainment.

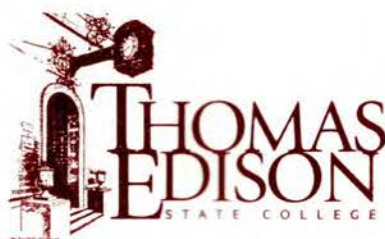

The Soldiers and Sailors' War Memorial was planned by men who believed they were commemorating the war to end wars, the war that had made the world safe for democracy. Designed by architect William A. Klemann, the building was completed March 1, 1932. The formal opening and dedication, however, took place January 19, 1932, at the second inaugural of Governor A. Harry Moore.

Conceived as "a great community center," the War Memorial lived up to its planners' intentions from the start. The War Memorial has been the site for the inauguration of every New Jersey governor since 1932. Three Presidents of the United States have given speeches at the Trenton War Memorial: Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy. As an emissary of her husband, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt also made a speech in the theater. The roster of world-class artists and entertainers who have performed in the Trenton War Memorial includes Louis Armstrong, Leonard Bernstein, Johnny Cash, Bill Cosby, Duke Ellington, Bob Hope, Vladimir Horowitz, B.B. King, the Kirov Ballet, Peter, Paul & Mary, Frank Sinatra and Bruce Springsteen.

On January 12, 1988, both houses of the Legislature, while gathered at the War Memorial for Gov. Thomas H. Kean's State of the State address, heard a preface they hadn't expected. As he looked out over the faded auditorium, the governor proposed that New Jersey restore it. Backed by the city and county, the legislation was signed by the governor on August 31 and transferred ownership to the state, with the promise that the landmark building would be brought back to its former glory.

Now, nearly five years of meticulous restoration and renovation have brought the Trenton War Memorial into the 21st Century while preserving and renewing the theater's Italian Renaissance-style elegance and grandeur. Reopened to the public in January 1999, following the $35 million restoration-renovation, the Trenton War Memorial is poised to recapture its place as central New Jersey's finest performing arts center and banquet-conference center.

It's 99% perspiration and 1% inspiration
