Address To The Graduates

In graduating from Trenton Junior College, many of you will be completing the first phase of your college education. The fact that 75% of you will continue your formal education at a four-year college or university suggests that a word of advice is in order.

Do not specialize too soon! This does not mean that you should not identify yourself with an area or department of instruction just as you did while at Trenton Junior College; I am simply suggesting that you postpone serious concentration on a particular subject within this area until your senior year, or in graduate school. This suggestion is specifically significant in the area of the sciences, where the rapid increase in technological knowledge and its application is causing relatively new techniques to become obsolete.

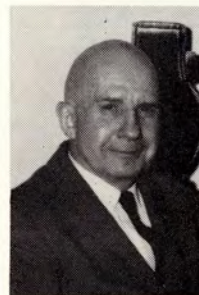

I trust your stay at Trenton Junior College has been a pleasant experience and that, in addition to making a contribution to you academically, it has also introduced you to many friends whose association you wish to retain after graduation.

One way in which you can continue your interest in your classmates and your college is through your Alumni Association. I urge you to become active in it. The next five years will be dynamic ones for Trenton Junior College. You can play an important part during these years by telling your friends how much you profited from your association with this institution and how important it is that it be encouraged to expand to make its facilities available to a larger number of students who will be seeking the same opportunity that was made available to you.

Cordially,
HENRY J. PARCINSKI

WHAT AM I TO BE?

(Dr. Pritchett's "Sermon" to the Graduating Students)

This is an important question for all, but it has a special pertinency to the members of the graduating class of 1962. The problems of their personal destiny, in the course which will determine it, is not yet solved. What sort of men or women they will be, what position they will occupy, and what part they will act in the after history of life, are questions as yet held in reserve. Being in the commencement of their journey, they have before them the program of the coming future.

The child is the man in embryo and the man is but the child matured. What the one is, usually decides what the other will be. Here is a lad of eighteen years. How will he appear in adult age? What position will he fill? What attainments will he possess? What will be his habits and character as then formed? Will he be an industrious, competent, virtuous, and well furnished man, or an indolent, helpless, incompetent, and useless being? God has established a connection between the earlier and the later periods of life that we can no more change than we can tear the stars from their positions in space. Childhood and youth form the elementary basis of manhood.

It is the sad misfortune and fault with a great many people that they do not see this truth in time to profit by it; yet in after years they will see it, and in after years they will feel its power. There is no dodging it, and no changing it. Later years may regret the follies of the earlier period; but this does not recover the period, or by any means remedy all its entailed evils. Recollect this, youth, you who have a future of honor to secure, or of disgrace to suffer. First, be right in the foundation principles of life, and then be what you are with all your might.

What Is To Come?

As this year comes to an end the past is viewed with emotions. In many things there is a sense of accomplishment; while in others only frustration and regret. A view in retrospect is an experience that requires an appraisal of one's participation and a judgement of the outcome of a given situation. When this is done it is hard to be honest and objective.

The graduating student in preparing to leave Trenton Junior is forced to take inventory of the past two years. There have been friends made, classes "cut", passed, failed, enthusiasm, disappointments, and rich rewards. There have been instructors who have brought life to subjects and others who inflicted pain in every agonizing hour. Yet, through it all, two years and maybe more, there rises an individual. An individual that is represented by statistics to grow old and musty in the drab file cabinet located in the stuffy, hot, room in back of the registrar's office. The class of '62 is listed from A to Z in little manila folders. These lists clog the cabinets and take up space until the time when even this must be denied them because of obsolescence. What have we left then: books and memories?

I wonder why there was not a course offered—"How to build a future on books and memories." Was it not for the future we acquired the thumb-worn books? Was it not for the future the individual was developed. And, was it not in this same future the memories were compiled?

Time is a continuum, I am told; will not the past and present go with us then? Our past failures will hamper; while accomplishments aid the decisions some will be good and others bad; but on these decisions rests our future.

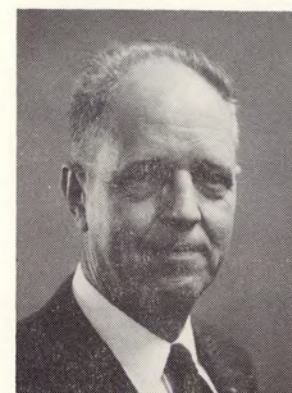

We are the trained leaders of the society to come. Part of the great American experiment and democracy's only protector.

Our democracy, Our decisions, Our past, Our present, and Our future. In a nation of free individuals we have the right to choose our future and our society. What will we do with it?

Baccalaureate And Commencement

The Baccalaureate Service for the graduating class of 1962 of Trenton Junior College and School of Industrial Arts will be held on Sunday, June 10, at 4 P.M., in the Assembly Hall of the War Memorial Building. Dr. Henry J. Parcinski will preside.

The Reverend Clifford Pollock, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Morrisville, Pennsylvania, will deliver the sermon. Music for the service will be provided by the Trenton Junior College Choral Group, under the direction of Mr. A. Vincent Gribbin. The invocation will be given by the Reverend Robert Cassel Brown, assistant minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Trenton. The Reverend Canon Edwin W. Tucker of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey will close the service with a solemn Benediction.

On Monday, June 11, at 4:30 P.M., a reception, given by the President, in behalf of the graduating class will be held in the College Library. This is an innovation, in that it will be the first time the President has ever held a reception in honor of a graduating class. The presence of all the graduates is requested. The President's Reception is open only to members of the graduating class and to faculty. Arrangements for the reception have been made by Miss Theresa Babitts and Miss Jean Mara, Secretaries to the President and the Dean of Students respectively.

The Commencement Exercises will be held on Monday, June 11, at 8:00 P.M. in the main auditorium of the War Memorial Building. The Invocation will be given by the Reverend Leonard R. Toomey, assistant pastor of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church of Trenton. The main address will be delivered by Dr. George R. Sidel, Education Manager of the Public Relations Department of E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co. of Wilmington, Delaware. Benediction will be given by Rabbi Howard C. Hersch of the Congregation of the Brothers Israel. Dean Lloyd A. Carver, Dean of Faculty, will present the graduates for their respective degrees and diplomas, which will be conferred upon them by Dr. Henry J. Parcinski. The music will again be furnished by the Trenton Junior College Choral Group.

Arrangements for these exercises have been made by the Commencement Committee, consisting of Dr. John Perry Pritchett, Chairman; Mr. James F. McCoy, Mr. Henry Tornell, Mr. A. Vincent Gribbin, Mr. Ralph Schmidt and Mr. Robert C. Martin.

Awards Day

Whispers of who might be the winners of the prized awards were exchanged as friends journeyed to the War Memorial Building. The hum of excitement was spurred by the spirited music of the Marines' Hymn as the students gathered for the Awards Convocation. The enthusiasm was reflected in the energetic response as the sports awards were given to the honored teams. For the athletes it was the winning of a Varsity letter or sweater, or the more highly prized trophy, personalized with a jest by their proud coach. Even the intellectual athletes of the "checkered arena" brought forth their champion strategist of the kings and queens. These newly founded honors were conferred on Mr. Don Wilson and Mr. Ronald Costello. This creative vein was heightened by the Annual Art Exhibit awards. The talented artists were Miss Nyla Thomas, Miss Nancy Bossio, Mrs. Camille Mueller and Miss Barbara Lundy.

With a more academic flavor, Dean Carver presented the unprecedented awards to those successful students on the Dean's List. At their exit the excitement of the audience changed from the vibrant air of witnessing the known to the hushed suspense of awaiting the unknown. The interest of speaker and listeners shifted from shared excitement to mutual expectation. The image at the podium became a voice uttering an eulogy to the multitude of keen ears deadened with the anticipation of a name; the words of esteem ring hollow and may soon be forgotten, save by the one whom they extol. In his memory these expressions are etched in the pinpricked sensation of humbling exuberance; their recollection will elicit the vibrations of the happy moment of weakened composure when recognition was bestowed. This is Awards for the Few. For others it may be statistics, just time spent.

The treasured Dean of Faculty Award for the student with the highest scholastic average was presented by Dean Carver to Mr. Richard Hughes. The complete works of George Bernard Shaw proved to have a weighty effect on Mr. Hughes.

Miss Janet Vislocky was next honored as the recipient of the Sidney B. Kalen Art Award. Mrs. Sol Saperstein conferred this award in memory of Ensign Sidney B. Kalen, who lost his life during World War II.

Mr. James Stone was recognized as the outstanding student in the Engineering Curriculum. He received the Ladies Auxiliary of Professional Engineers of Mercer County Award.

The Columban J. Sattler Memorial Prize for Literature was awarded to Mrs. Charolette Hankin and Mr. Richard Hughes. This award is presented anonymously for excellence in sophomore literature.

The Veterans Club award for outstanding service to the College was presented to Mr. Robert Hung. The Student Government then conferred its service awards. The Tau Gamma Alpha Fraternity, an organization whose efforts were responsible for the success of many functions throughout the year, received the Organizational Service Award. The Outstanding Student Award was presented to Mr. Richard Miller. Mr. Robert Martin, President of the Student Government, received the award for meritorious service to the Student Government.

In recognition of academic achievement service and need the Student Government awarded four transfer scholarships. Mr. Robert Martin, Mr. Kenneth Minnick, Miss Nancy Bossio and Mr. Martin Santini were the honored recipients.

The Alumni Association awarded the Henry J. Parcinski Scholarship to Mr. Richard Hughes. This was the initial public presentation of this scholarship honoring a student for academic accomplishment.

The Sigma Tau Sigma Honor Society announced the winner of its essay contest, Mr. Vincent Luccarelli. Mr. Luccarelli's essay is included in this Commencement Issue.

Dr. John P. Pritchett next presented his annual award in recognition of outstanding students. This year the honor was given to Mr. William Bancroft and Mr. Martin Santini.

The final award, perhaps the most unique, was presented by the President, Dr. Henry J. Parcinski. This award is given to the student whose previous academic record was doubtful as to his success at the College, but who fulfilled the confidence expressed in his admission by attaining academic prominence.

This was Awards Day 1962. The moment of glory for an elite.

RETROSPECT ON SPORT-A-SCOPE

During the year we, the students of Trenton Junior College, have enjoyed a very interesting and enjoyable sports program. The program was highlighted by introducing many new sporting events to the students. The sports circle was widened by introducing Cross-Country and Golf to the intercollegiate level and basketball to the intramural ranks.

Tau Gamma Alpha did an excellent job in organizing the Intramural Football League. The Gold Team went all the way to the league championship, and also annexed another victory by defeating the league All-Stars, 12-0. The football league led us up to the Homecoming. On that evening the TJC basketball team played its first home game, defeating the Alumni. While the basketball team progressed at a victorious pace, the Cross-Country team, which had been working very hard under the supervision of coach Dominic Iorio, was next to show their talents. However, they didn't do so well in the one meet they participated in. It was the first year for CC and in a year or two, the CC team should make a better showing.

Pi Eta Epsilon Fraternity organized an intramural bowling league. The league which met at Delmore Lanes every Thursday at 12:30 enjoyed prodigious success. With 1961 ending and the new year beginning, the sports program continued. The basketball team was the center of attraction during this time. The team coached by Al Eble was led by Paul Fisher. Paul enjoyed one of his greatest seasons and is slowly becoming one of the best back court men on the Junior College level in the east. Cas Wrobel and Frank Mancuso also played vital roles during the successful season. The season was climaxed with two astonishing victories over the Rider and Lafayette freshmen. In these games the club looked like true champions. By winning the final two of the season the team pushed above the .500 mark for a 12-11 year. The only sad spot about TJC basketball was the student's support. Never have I seen or heard of such a lack of interest shown to one's school team by a student body. This writer has harped on it all year long to no avail. Something in the future must be done to overcome this deficiency.

Going down the ladder a couple flights we find intramural basketball. The Black Team walked away with the league honors for a perfect eight victories. Here again we find a well organized and well participated intramural program shared by the students of TJC.

After the completion of the Basketball season the intercollegiate sports scene remained idle for a few weeks. This didn't last long, however, because the TJC baseball team was ready to go and live up to all the pre-season praise bestowed upon them. Sports experts picked our team to advance as far as the final round of competition in Denver, Colorado. So, with the Eastern College Tournament held in Trenton, things looked even brighter. The season finally started and a strong Montgomery Junior College team edged us out 7-5. Ed Steckley hurled for TJC and fanned 15 batters. Ed pitched a fine game but poor fielding was the major cause of defeat.

Then, like the champions they really are, the team bounced back to ten victories against two defeats before entering the tournament. Steckley, Tony Manto, Joe Marino and Tom Minar carried the pitching along while co-captains Dan Napoleon, Leon Colavita along with Forrest Parker, Jim DeFazio, Joe Castelize, John Sielski, Ron Hock, and Vince Pagano have led the club along with the sticks. The club to date has already won more games than any other TJC baseball team has ever won. Their record is 12 wins and 4 defeats. Although losing out on our bid to win the Regional 15 Championship, we did enjoy a very highly successful season. There are three games remaining on the regular season. With three victories here, the club could really have a great year. There is a good nucleus of returning ballplayers to next year's team. So next season's prospects look even better.

The Golf team under the direction of Vick Rice won its opening match of the season downing Wesley Junior College. The boys look impressive and showed much enthusiasm. We congratulate the boys and wish them luck, for they have helped to broaden the spring sports picture.

During the year it was learned that Albert F. Eble present baseball and basketball coach, would not return next season as coach of these sports. So, the college was out looking for a new athletic director and coach. After the search came to an end the school officials made an excellent choice in choosing Howie Landa. Little needs to be said about this remarkable young man. Mr. Landa will take over next year as new baseball and basketball coach as well as athletic director. We believe this is a big step in broadening the sports set-up at TJC.

As the year comes to an end we will always remember 1961-62 as a great year in TJC's sports history.

Farewell Messages From The Editors

What have we learned in the past two years? That two years can seem two months, two days or two hours, depending on how they are viewed. We have learned everything and nothing; that there is a beginning but no end; that knowledge is a vast universe which we have just begun to explore. Many of us will go no further in our probings and many will never end their quest for more knowledge. An intellectual embryo should have been formed in these past two years. How that embryo will mature depends on countless thousands of factors; two of the most important being curiosity and interest. Without these prime-movers, you will gain only sterile, meaningless information to be spewed forth in an act of mental diarrhea.

Each individual should periodically attempt a self evaluation in order to influence and strengthen or Graduation from college is simply a line in the great movement of time. It may be a little brighter or, perhaps a little darker, than the average day because it marks a transition between the past and the future. For the past two years, the development of our intellect was the most important route traveled on our highway to education. Yet college, as we have seen, is not just one road, but a complicated network of many.

On the day he enters, the student is confronted by an almost bewildering array of signposts. He can take any number of courses and can train for any number of careers. While he is on the campus, he can elect to study hard, engage in a large variety of extra-curricular activities, or concentrate on a purely social life. Many of us who travelled these paths have approached our personal crossroads with pride and satisfaction, while others have not. correct the course his life is taking. Now, as we graduate from Junior College, is an opportune time for this act of honest self-evaluation. For some the results may be damaging, for others, highly significant. Honest, self-evaluation is perhaps one of the most difficult problems facing all mankind. This does not call for a judgement but a viewing of the self in order to alter or reinforce the direction you have chosen.

Graduation implies a completion, our graduation is a point of reference which should remain an integral part of our lives, for, although we will physically leave the institution, a part of us will remain. This remaining influence will become a part of the mounting tradition growing with Trenton Junior College. The success achieved during the past two years was due to a harmonic relationship between the administration, the faculty, and the student body; in the future, it will be measured by reflections of our-Selves, and in the recollection of our College heritage.

proached our personal crossroads with pride and satisfaction, while others have not.

The opportunity to become successful was provided through a concrete structure that supported the will and desire of those who accepted the serious responsibility of attending Trenton Junior College. This responsibility produced a firm bond together with the joy of receiving excellent grades and being accepted by a senior college.

The problems that lie ahead for the graduates of 1962, including those terminating their education and those going on to senior colleges can now be confronted through the application of knowledge acquired and the power to think for himself as a mature adult.

The excellent success of the class of 1962 can indeed be attributed to the warm and friendly atmosphere made possible through the efforts of the administration, faculty, and student body.

"American Social Consciousness And The Christian Ethic"

BY VINCENT LUCARELLI

From a point of view of Christian ethics and spirit, the American social conscience is a babe in arms, an infant in the cradle that needs care and attention and a diet of vitamin "T" (for thou). Stated in historical terms, America's first half of the twentieth century can be described generally as America coming of social age, the age which gave birth to a social consciousness. In no other time in our history was the need for institutional sanction of our nation's social problems so deeply felt.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt's administration in the 1930's answered this call with dramatic and sweeping reforms, which led the government to accept responsibility for the social and economic welfare of the community. The much needed slap across the spine that brings breath and life to the newborn had been administered.

Many an angry voice was raised against this violation of our traditional freedoms. And rightly so, for wasn't this a deliberate blow to our cherished principles of liberty and independence upon which our nation was founded? A tinkering with a system that shouldn't be tinkered with, and a governmental interference foreign to our system and without precedent? Wasn't this recognition a natural development in the process of social consolidation? This logical step followed a period of pioneering and settling of the western frontier. Foot-loose America finally had to stay her roving nature and settle to the new social condition. Didn't this change to immobilization imply new patterns and structures, and, more importantly, new social attitudes?

The gradual but irresistible drawing together of people into a social unit, and its subsequent growth to community that binds the individual to a communal life is a process as old as man himself, and certainly true of the early settlers of the new world. But our country, rooted in ideals of freedom, individualism, and self-reliance, finds itself a stranger to the experience of the togetherness of the social unit.

Traveling the road to social justice; feeling the growing pains of increasing urbanization, our free institutions and traditions have reached a cross-road and are in need of signposts to direct them. In keeping with these traditions, we have produced in the past an impressive system of independent, social relief organizations that have served our society well, though never adequately. Their services satisfied only isolated needs. New demands require attention encompassing the whole of society (for no man is an island, and does not live in a social vacuum). Thus the federal government embarked upon the policy to gain for America yet another freedom—freedom from want. At last, the social awareness of our nation is awakened to the necessity of the new social condition: the collective society. This is the crux of our dilemma and source of America's mid-century crisis.

It would be all too easy to consider this the extent of our responsibility. In seeking solutions to our social problems there are two dangers which we must be wary of. (1) Our "welfare" measures could easily lead us to communism, since the two systems are economically related. We would simply pass the buck of responsibility entirely to the government and surrender to it our fundamental political rights—a logical sequence if a communal welfare program were to be carried out. (2) The second danger is to do what we have always done in the past, shirk personal care and responsibility for the welfare fortunes of the community—seduced by traditional thinking to let things develop in an atmosphere of freedom. If collectivity of any kind is implied here, it relates to the sense of togetherness communicated through those kindly acts we do individually for our fellow man. As an integral part of the community, the individual is morally bound to take into account the plight of fellow human beings. To do so would represent a positive response to the truth that the community is of reciprocal value to those who comprise it. For what is a community but a union of individuals banded together for cooperation and mutual benefit. In a broader sense, it represents the family of man.

The importance of new social attitudes is thus made apparent. Communism is doomed for not having developed them. Democracy will fail if it does not adopt them. We need only to look to the Christian Ethic to find the formula that will give us the needed dimension of social justice and obligation. In Christianity, as in this writing, the "collective" and the "welfare" refer to the binding qualities of the spirit of moral charity in supplementing governmental action. They refer not to material contributions or gains, but rather to the spiritual values received out of the practice of the theory of the "Thou"—the selfless acts of the individual in expressing the essential meaning of Christian Ethics: To do what is above and beyond the call of duty; to do more than is normally expected of us out of our own will. This calls for personal action, not governmental. Individual effort and contributions of this nature are imperative if we are to develop a mature social consciousness and preserve our traditional freedoms.
