Academic Heraldry: The Symbols of Learning

While the current code concerning the types of academic costumes to be used by the colleges in the United States dates from 1960, distinctive academic dress dates from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries. The college or university commencement procession today is a pageant, alive and bright with a dress and ceremony deep in the tradition of the oldest universities.

Academic life as we know it today began in the Middle Ages — with Bologna and Paris, Oxford and Cambridge, Edinburgh, Glasgow and Louvain — first in the Church, then in the guilds. The teaching guild was the Guild of the Master of Arts, where the bachelor was the apprentice of the master, and the dress was color-coded and patterned according to the academic level and discipline. Twelfth century records of Oxford University carry this justification for academic dress: "It is honorable and in accordance with reason that clerks to whom God has given an advantage of the lay folk in their adornments within, should likewise differ from the lay folk outwardly in dress."

There are three principal features of academic dress: the gown, the cap and the hood. Their design and heraldry were, from as early as the eleventh and twelfth centuries in the great European universities, the outward sign of the bringing together of students and privileged persons under the same discipline.

To preserve their dignity and meaning, it early became necessary for these universities to set rules for academic dress. American universities agreed on a definite system in 1895 and set up a suitable dress code of academic dress for the colleges and universities of the United States. In 1932, and again in 1959, the American Council on Education revised the code which, for the most part, governs the style of academic dress today.

THE GOWN. The flowing gown comes from the twelfth century. Many think it was worn in olden times as protection against the cold of unheated buildings. It has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it completely covers any dress of rank or social standing underneath. It is black for all baccalaureate and above degrees, with pointed sleeves for the bachelor's degree; oblong sleeves for the master's degree; and bell-shaped for the doctor's degree. For the bachelor's or master's degree, the gown has no trimmings. For the doctor's degree, it is faced down the front with velvet and has three bars of velvet across the sleeves in the color distinctive of the faculty or discipline to which the degree pertains. More recently, the official colors of Thomas Edison State College, burgundy and cream, have been used in the gown and its decorations.

THE CAP. When Roman law freed the slave, he won the privilege of wearing a cap. And so the academic cap is a sign of freedom of scholarship and the responsibility and dignity with which scholarship endows the wearer. Old poetry records the cap of scholarship as square to symbolize the book, although some authorities claim that the mortar board is the symbol of the masons, a privileged guild. The color of the tassel on the cap denotes the discipline.

THE HOOD. Since almost all of the students and faculty in the medieval universities were clerics (minor church ecclesiastics) and were tonsured, the hood served to cover the shaved head from the cold of unheated buildings. Eventually, the hood was superseded by the skull cap and evolved into a headdress more or less like those in use today. Heraldically, the hood is an inverted shield with one or more chevrons of a secondary color on the ground of the primary color of the college. The color of the facing of the hood denotes the discipline represented by the degree; the color of the lining of the hood designates the college or university from which the degree was granted.

The associate degree is a modern degree which dates back only several decades rather than centuries. In the hierarchy of the academic world, the associate degree is the modern entry point. Its equivalent in the guild of teachers would be that of a junior apprentice.

The hood is not worn by the associate graduate. The associate's cap and gown are grey.

THE MACE. The mace — a heavy staff or club fashioned entirely of metal with a metal head — was originally a weapon of war. In the sixteenth century, it became a ceremonial standard and a scepter of office. It resembled the original weapon and was carried before officials at ceremonial occasions. It is still in use in the House of Commons, where it lies upon the table before the speaker as a symbol of the authority of the House.

The mace of Thomas Edison State College was designed by the College and was inaugurated as the scepter of office at the October 1990 Commencement ceremony. It is a solid maple scepter with a two-sided medallion mounted to the head by a brass collar. There are three brass bands on the shaft, upon which the names of the College's three presidents and their terms are inscribed: James Douglas Brown, Jr., 1972-1978; Larraine Rose Matusak, 1979-1982; and George A. Pruitt, 1982-present. The mace shaft and base are finished in mahogany.

Carried in the procession by Dr. Patricia Sparks, the academic dean, the mace symbolizes the authority of the Office of the President.

Salmon began his law career in 1958 after earning an A.B. degree in History and Government from Boston College, a Juris Doctor degree from Boston College Law School and a Master of Law degree in Taxation from New York University Law School. Settling in Vermont, Salmon completed his clerkship, joined his first law firm and then started his own firm within two years of receiving his law degree. In 1960, Salmon embarked upon his long political career with an appointment as town counsel for the Town of Rockingham, a post he held until 1972. He served as judge of Bellows Falls Municipal Court from 1963 to 1965. Salmon was elected four times as representative of the Town of Rockingham to the Vermont General Assembly (1964 to 1970). During his last term, he was both chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and minority leader. In 1971, he was appointed to the Legislative Apportionment Board.

In 1972, Salmon was elected governor of Vermont. He was re-elected in 1974. During his terms, he served as chairman of the New England Governors' Conference, chairman of the New England Regional Commission, a member of the Executive Committee of the National Governors' Conference and chairman of its Committee on Natural Resources and Environmental Management.

Salmon returned to law in 1977, when he formed a partnership to open the law firm of Salmon & Nostrand. In 1978, he also co-founded Vermont Medical, Inc., Melsur, Inc., and Angiolaz, Inc., major employers in the Bellows Falls area.

President Carter appointed Salmon to the Board of Directors of the United States Railway Association, where he served from 1979 to 1982. From 1981 to 1985, he served as chairman of Vermont's Judicial Conduct Board. Following that service, he was appointed chairman of the Vermont Higher Education Planning Commission, a post he held until 1990. In recognition of his outstanding leadership, business acumen and dedication to education and community, Salmon was appointed interim president of The University of Vermont in 1991, and president in 1993. He served as president until 1997.

He is an adjunct professor in the graduate school seminar in the Master of Public Administration department at The University of Vermont.

Salmon has received a number of honorary degrees, including degrees from Boston College and The University of Vermont. He also received the John F. Kennedy Award in 1975, presented annually to an outstanding American of Irish descent by the City of Holyoke, Mass. That same year, he was named by Time as one of America's 200 "outstanding young leaders." His present affiliations include chairmanship of the Board of Directors of Green Mountain Power Corporation, and membership on the Boards of Directors of the Vermont Electric Power Company, Banknorth Group, Union Mutual Fire Insurance Company, National Life Insurance Company, Vermont Medical, Inc., Melsur, Inc., and Angiolaz, Inc.

America, the Beautiful

Music by Samuel A. Ward
Words by Katherine Lee Bates

O beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain,
For purple mountains' majesties,
Above the fruited plain.
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood,
From sea to shining sea.

O beautiful for patriot dream,
That sees beyond the years,
Thine alabaster cities gleam,
Undimmed by human tears.
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood,
From sea to shining sea.
